A sorceress, Centaur, Warrow elves and wiki lead the armies of five to do battle with an evil lord for control of a planet

Peter DeChristopher announces the release of 'Pangea'

TUCSON, Ariz. – Peter DeChristopher announces his entry into the publishing scene with the release of “Pangea” (published by Xlibris), an adventure novel in which a planet with a single supercontinent with a diversified number of species who live in a medieval age do battle with an evil lord for control of that planet.

In the Sombrero Galaxy created 13 billion years ago, a single planet in one of its solar systems was granted by the Ancient of Days (the creator of time and space) to set forth the seeds of life. After billions of seasons of tectonic movement, its many continents converged to form a single supercontinent thusly named by ancient Tehran kings—Pangea.

An evil entity once encountered in the Second Age of their civilization appears to be stirring once again in the Dark Forest. Led by the Tehran sorceress, Isolde; a Centaur lord; Warrow elves; and a Wiki. They will lead a perilous journey, along with the armies of the five kingdoms, toward the citadel of the Dark Tower to encounter the evil lord, Abaddon. With his minions of cyclops known as the Malakai and the dwarf Neanderthals, they will do battle for control of Pangea.

“This book will appeal to any age person who likes fantasy novels such as Lord of the Rings and Game of Thrones. With unusual characters such as Tehrans, Centaurs, warrows, wiki's and Malakai. It is full of adventure and fast moving as to keep the reader entertained and engulfed in the novel,” DeChristopher says. “I want readers to enjoy this fantasy tale that has never been told before, by many species that were never conceived before this story, and enjoy all the adventures of the many characters that they read about.”
